“Creativity for Peace has opened my eyes and made me believe in myself. We can always find the strength to love and forgive. I realize that I can change the reality and I should never stop dreaming.”

-Shelly, Jewish Israeli

“I’m holding my experience not as three weeks in life but as a life in three weeks. I appreciate the opportunity to argue, listen, respect, and love -- all at the same time. I’ve learned that there’s no way to peace – peace is the way.”

-Shaden, Palestinian living in Israel

“This is an experience that happens once in a lifetime. We had fun yet gained leadership skills and became more independent.”

-Deema, Palestinian
OUR PEOPLE

Welcome to Yonit Mansoor-Sahar (Israel), dialogue co-facilitator. For 25 years Yonit has specialized in women’s empowerment and leadership. She has taught a course for women managers of social change organizations and facilitated reconciliation groups with Arab and Jewish youth.

Ameera Said (Palestine), West Bank coordinator and senior young leader, was born in Jenin and grew up in the shadow of the second Intifada. She joined Creativity for Peace in 2005. “As women we can make the change,” she says. “I will continue this work until peace is realized or until the day that I die.”

Yasmin Talmon (Israel), camp house mother, is a certified trainer, facilitator, and multidisciplinary therapist. She established and managed a Waldorf kindergarten for 15 years. She believes that the work of Creativity for Peace is a key to eliminating prejudice between Jews and Arabs.

MISSION

We prepare the next generation of women leaders and peacemakers in Palestine and Israel. Our programs include a summer camp centered on dialogue and artmaking, ongoing gatherings in the Middle East, young leader training, and academic scholarships.

We are the sole organization focused on training young Israeli and Palestinian women to lead in partnership. Since 2003, 193 young women have participated.

“Creativity for Peace is the only organization that continues to work with young leaders year-round and gives us many opportunities to be peacemakers.”

~Rula, senior young leader
Thirty-six young women have made a significant commitment to peacemaking through their participation in our young leader program. They receive year-round training in emotional and practical leadership skills and use this expertise to advance the cause of peace.

Recent young leader activities include:

- Participating in a conference of young Arab peacemakers from the Middle East, Europe, and the United States, organized by the Common Bond Institute in Amman, Jordan.

- Visiting with members of the United States Congress as part of an Alliance for Middle East Peace conference in Washington, D.C.

- Speaking about their work for peace to nearly 1,000 people as part of a five-day tour of New York City that included high schools, universities, faith communities, and public groups.

- Serving on a steering committee to advise Creativity for Peace staff on young leader programs and policies.

- Organizing meetings and trainings for campers and young leaders in locations throughout Israel and Palestine.

INTERNATIONAL BREMEN PEACE AWARD

Creativity for Peace was one of 27 entities from around the world honored with a special citation from the Threshold Foundation in Germany, sponsors of the International Bremen Peace Award, which honors organizations and individuals for exemplary commitment to justice and peace.

“I was full of hatred and rage. Creativity for Peace changed my life, my thoughts, and the way I see other people. A part of me was touched that had never been touched before.”

—Nahida, senior young leader

YOUNG LEADERS WORKING FOR PEACE

The Board of Directors has established the Leslie Nathanson Juris Leadership Fund at Creativity for Peace to support these young women. For further information or to contribute please contact Dottie Indyke at dottie@creativityforpeace.com.
OUR DONORS

Hundreds of individuals, families, businesses, foundations, and others support our work with cash, in-kind gifts, time, and talent. Special thanks to our Board of Directors, Emeritus Board, and to the de Laski family foundation for their extraordinary belief in our mission.

VOLUNTEERS

More than 100 volunteers contributed to our work this year, helping with meals, laundry, and transportation. They organized workshops and special events, such as a circle of young Israeli, Palestinian, and American women and the second annual “Feast for Peace” celebration. Chef Emily Swantner led a Mediterranean cooking class to raise funds for Creativity for Peace. Many other volunteers shared their passion for our mission by hosting fundraising parties in their homes. Thus far more than $19,000 has been raised.

“Creativity for Peace is a great experience for each of us. I have learned how to listen, how to express myself, how to speak in public. I’m a CFP girl forever.”

–Mai S., senior young leader
