Creativity for Peace trains young Palestinian and Israeli women to partner as leaders by breaking down barriers of anger and prejudice, facilitating friendships, and inspiring action to promote peace.

The Ripple Effect: Our Leaders’ Influence in the World
- Young leaders spoke to 4,000 Americans about their work for peace
- Mai attended meetings of the Counsel on the Status of Women at the United Nations
- Jwana created a group of 300 youth who lead community projects in Palestine
- Yaara and Deema are delegates for peace in Eugene, Oregon
- Rula produced a film advocating peace
- Aya spoke at an international nursing conference in Jordan

Preparing to Lead: Deepening Our Young Women’s Skills
- Siwar and May head reconciliation groups with Arab and Jewish students in Acco, Israel
- Shirit, Mai, and Jwana directed a workshop for Santa Fe girls on alternatives to violence, compassionate dialogue, and honoring differences
- Three in-depth trainings were held for Young Leaders near home
- Sivan teaches social activism and facilitates cross-cultural dialogue in Jaffa, Israel

Laying the Foundation: Our 15th Summer Program
- 10th anniversary of launching young women peacemakers
- Direct transformation of 207 lives and indirect impact on 20,000+ people
- Empowering women: “I have taken on a mission to spread what I have learned.” — Johanna, Israeli
- Instilling hope: “May we find true friendship. May we find peace.” — Saja, Palestinian
- Introducing the narrative of the enemy: “My mind, my eyes, and my heart have opened to the other’s reality.” — Shoshana, Israeli
